

APRIL 27 MEETING TO HEAR STERLING TUCKER

Executive Director of the Washington, D.C. Urban League, Sterling Tucker will talk at the April 27 meeting of the Foggy Bottom Association. The meeting will take place at the usual location - Pillsbury Hall of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 2430 K St., N.W. at 8 p.m.

Mr. Tucker has served as Executive Director of the Washington, D.C. Urban League for 13 years, building it into the League with the largest membership (20,000) in the country. He is currently serving a three-year term as Vice-chairman of the nine-man

District of Columbia City Council, a post he was appointed to by President Nixon in 1969. Author and lecturer - his first book "Beyond the Burning" was published by Association Press two years ago. A second work, "Black Reflections on White Power" was published last year.

The April 27 meeting of the Foggy Bottom Association will be a great opportunity to hear the thinking of this distinguished civic leader on building our future community.

LET'S GET A BREATH OF FRESH AIR

by Burton T. Wilson

No matter what you burn, you contaminate the air and you have to burn fuel to have electricity, to move vehicles, ships, trains and planes, to keep warm, to keep cool, to pump water and to dry clothes. Also, your body can tolerate a little poison over a short period of time, but how will it react over a long term? And the contaminants in our air are poisons. So what have we in our highly mechanized nation done - worked ourselves into an insurmountable problem? "Painted ourselves into a corner of our own room?"

Perhaps not - unless we so wish. A columnist in the Washington Post may be pointing the way to a partial solution although his subject was the growing scarcity of fuel rather than the increasing scarcity of fresh air. The columnist, Nicholas von Hoffman (March 18, 1970), suggested that in the summer of 1970 we may have to shut down our air conditioning equipment because there will not be enough fuel to operate the electric generating plants that supply them. Sounds like the good old frontier days, doesn't it? And yet we may find that we are healthier and happier, if we revert to some of the conditions of that time. That was a more conservative culture in the sense that you took care of what you had because it was difficult to replace. Today we find that we must take care of both our fuel and our health because they are hard (if not impossible) to replace. A general, over-all reduction in the amount of electricity consumed, if manufactured items heedlessly bought and needlessly discarded are reduced in quantity, will help extend fuel supplies, our lives and, incidentally, slow down inflation.

One of the more searching yet brief comments on us and our world is by Dr. Rene Dubos who talked at the Smithsonian last October. Among other ideas, he suggests that we may be at the end of the phase when expansion just for the sake of growth is considered the chief social value. If this idea begins to gain ground, it would reduce the magnitude of our problems and in that manner make them more readily solved by us.

WRIGHT RIGHT

Monday, April 6, 1970, the D.C. Court of Appeals reversed a lower court decision and stated that the D.C. Government must hold hearings on the controversial Three Sisters Bridge. J. Skelly Wright in his majority opinion found that nothing in Section 23 of the 1968 Federal-Aid to Highways Act could be construed as demanding that the bridge be built without the hearings required by the original highway act. Judge Wright went further saying that if, in fact, Section 23 denied the hearing rights granted by Title 23, he would have no choice but to declare Section 23 unconstitutional. We can now look forward to extensive hearings on this destructive and unnecessary bridge. This is a victory for our Association and our Federation both of which joined the suit. But more important it is a victory for our city and for citizen participation. It is heartening evidence that our system can still be responsive to the people.

Eminent Psychologist Declares Necessity of Foggy Bottom News

That the Foggy Bottom News is one of the essential links in the life of our community has long been known by the members of the News staff. When men whose time is valuable pick up the day's reading material, they read FBNews first. Office workers who toss other newsletters into their most frequently used file (round) with little more than a casual perusal take the time to read FBNews before filing it away.

Advertisers know that they can reach readers who count, only in the pages of FBNews.

Now the professionals are coming around to admitting what the News has known all along: Reading FBNews is essential for a full, happy, sane life.

No less an authority than a prominent Foggy Bottom psychologist has declared in a recent letter to the News that his sense of well-being has considerably diminished as a direct result of not seeing FBNews.

Dr. S. L. Freud says, "Shortly after I moved into my offices at 2430 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., I began receiving the Foggy Bottom News. Suddenly it stopped arriving and I miss it."

So if YOUR life is a tangle of anxieties and seems to be lacking that certain undefinable something, don't "try dancing", just pick up Foggy Bottom News—at your neighborhood psychologist's.

GW NOISE ANNOYS

Bordered on two sides by parking lots that could easily be mistaken for automobile graveyards, stands the new GW classroom building at 23rd and G Sts. One would describe it as blandly attractive if it were not for its noisy roof-top heating plant, whose reverberating broadcast can be heard as much as three blocks away and is disturbing to sleep. We already live in one of the noisiest sections of town and as has been recently shown, noise can cause heart attacks and nervous disorders. The addition of what would seem to be an avoidable increment to this racket — this is a brand-new building! — cannot be tolerated. All those who are disturbed by this noise should drop a note to:

ASSOCIATION NOTES FROM MARCH 30 FBA MEETING

President Al Cottrell asked for volunteers to attend an air pollution control implementation workshop held in the Pan American World Health Rotunda.

Nominating Committee Chairman Charles Schoeneman asked that suggestions for nominees for Association officers be phoned to him at 965-5499.

Lt. George West of the 2nd District discussed the possibility of a light at 24th & New Hampshire, suggested by Charles Schoeneman. Lt. West also gave out pamphlets listing precautions to be taken by women to avoid being robbed on the street.

Treasurer Harriet Gruger reports that we now have 150 members, an increase from 94 in December, and that the Association is still solvent.

A concert by the D.C. Youth Orchestra will be sponsored by the Association on May 17 in the 26th Street Park. A nominal admission will be charged, and all proceeds will go to the orchestra to assist them in raising money to attend the convocation of world youth orchestras to be held in Switzerland this summer.

Fr. F. Everett Abbott offered St. Mary's Episcopal Church as a new distribution point where the papers may be counted and from which deliveries may be made.

Velma Ryan took a leaf from the Boston Tea Party and pinned tea bags on various members as a reminder that D.C. has no vote.

Mr. Cottrell reported that $1-3/4 million has already been appropriated to build a new headquarters for the 2nd District at Idaho and Newark. Instead of our Association approving this action, Mr. Schoeneman moved that the FBA oppose this change of location of the 2nd District headquarters, the belief being that the present facilities could easily be enlarged, in spite of the fact that the die has seemingly been cast and that protest at this stage would have no effect.

The motion was seconded and passed.

At the March 30 FBA meeting we learned from Frank Rich what the Metropolitan Washington Urban Coalition is doing to bring the city together. A native Washingtonian, Rich is a fervent promoter of the Coalition. He wants to get the community "upset enough to listen to the poor and push the system to respond to their needs."

One of 49 urban coalitions around the country, MWUC is not to be confused with the National Urban Coalition headed by John Gardner. MWUC was founded in March 1968 and became active during the civil disturbances following the assassination of Martin Luther King. Its Board includes 45 representatives of business, industry, the City Council, labor, the Federal Government, citizens organizations, churches, and neighborhoods, who meet at least twice a month.

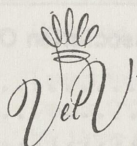

Rich sees the Coalition as catalyst, prod, problem-solver; but not operating arm. It sponsors regular Monday morning prayer breakfasts for police and community leaders in the Shaw and Adams-Morgan areas. It takes stands on issues: for bills supporting a non-voting delegate to represent District citizens in Congress, against turning over the Police Department to Mr. McMillan.

Rich found the Coalition mired in rhetoric, with a reduced staff, so decided to choose the most pressing problems for attack. Foremost is the crime and drug problem: over 50% of violent crimes in D.C. are hard-drug related. Since Mayor Washington moved a few weeks ago to create the Narcotics Treatment Agency under 33-year-old Dr. Robert Dupont, there is a need for volunteers at halfway houses for addicts. Located throughout the city, these houses would provide detoxification and methadone maintenance. Dr. Dupont is working with Colonel Hassan of Blackman's Development Center whose programs appear to be meeting with some success.

To sum up, Rich wants action - more people working together, identifying problems, then pressing for a mechanism to solve them. Do you want to help? Call FBA President Al Cottrell to find out who's already doing what, or to tell him what you think we should do - as an organization or as individuals.

The annual election of officers for the year 1970-1971 will take place at the Foggy Bottom meeting of June 29. Turn in your nominees for officers to any member of the nominating committee. The committee is composed of Charles Schoenemann, Rev. Richard Martin, Rufus Lisle and Miss Leslie Wilder.

What Can WE Do to REDUCE VIOLENCE?

The Final Report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence has been reduced to pamphlet size and published through the co-operation of thirty-four organizations which felt it should be available to and read by as many people as possible. It has been pared down to the Introduction and the Summary of Recommendations given in the report. If the people of the United States wanted to create more violence, this probably could be used as a kind of handbook. But its real purpose is to give us some ideas about how we can help reduce the amount of violence in our country.

The Summary of Recommendations (only eight small pages) provides a quick look at many problems we may not be greatly aware of, or which we have come almost to accept as a normal part of life. The recommendations run from discontinuing the broadcasting on TV of children's cartoons containing serious, non-comic violence to the increase of day and night police foot-patrols.

The Commission has written its report; the pamphlet giving the most significant elements of the report has been published. Now it's up to us, if we care enough about the reduction of violence, to send 25¢ to one of the following organizations requesting a copy of "To Establish Justice, To Insure Domestic Tranquility", — and READ it.

Are You YOUNG, UNMARRIED & SOCIAL?

The call is out for more young people who want to be with other young people and do things with these same young people. Not content with being among themselves, the St. Raphael's Club (sometimes called "The Young Adults Group") would like to see more 18-35ers, in and out of Foggy Bottom, join their activities — and probably their club.

Coming up is their annual Memorial Day Weekend trip to Green Valley Farms, West Virginia — a beautiful site for a retreat from the side effects of progress (pollution, noise, etc.) that promises a lot of fun for the active (horseback riding, volleyball, baseball, hiking) and the inactive alike ("It's the most peaceful place I have ever been to; it's almost like heaven," says president Elaine Bitko).

Anyone — and they mean anyone (including "as yet" nonmembers) — who would like to come on this trip is invited to call Walter Sukacz, Tel. 223-0600. The fee for this 4-day weekend trip is $40 and covers lodging and meals. Your reservations are necessary, and should be made by the second week of May.

LAST MONDAY

The monthly Foggy Bottom Association meeting is NOT held on the fourth Monday of the month -- it is held on the LAST Monday of the month.

"...and there was light"

The January News recommended making our streets as bright as day to deter night crime. Shortly thereafter, residents of the 1800 block of Wyoming Avenue, N.W., installed floodlighting in front of their buildings. A member of the News staff recently reported floodlights over a doorway in the 1300 block of 21st Street, N.W., at about the same time as lights were installed in the 2300 block of 19th Street, N.W. Now comes a report in our daily sister publications that the federal government plans to spend one-half million dollars on night-time illumination at Federal Triangle.

Amazing how the right idea at the right time can make things happen.

GOOD PROVIDERS

If your apartment building is temporarily out of Foggy Bottom News, pick up your copy at your favorite Foggy Bottom merchant. In their efforts to make the Bottom a better place to live and work and shop, our neighborhood merchants contribute advertising to help pay for the News and to inform Bottom newcomers about the availability of services, as well as to provide Bottomians with the most stimulating and looked-forward-to monthly without a centerfold.

Spreehen Alsted Francais?

How many people of your acquaintance have learned a trade in high school and then gone to a foreign country to practice the trade and, at the same time, to learn the language and ways of the people of that country? And then have continued that pattern of itinerant socio-linguist?

Among many of this ilk whom the News does not know, one whom the News does know, after having served as head fitter in one of downtown's best known men's stores, has recently taken a community interest in Columbia Plaza. His name is Danny Diaz (pronounced THEEas), and his store sells some of the most respected brands in men's clothing, as well as suits made to measure.

Besides his native Spanish, in his travels Danny managed to learn Italian, French, German, Portuguese, and, of course, English. This fluency provides him with a vehicle virtuous for this area of such international confluence.

A modest, family man, Mr. Diaz keeps a small well-stocked shop, and, as a welcome contrast to an article we ran last spring concerning the displeasure of Columbia Plaza tenants with the lack of stores in the plaza, he expresses vigorous confidence in the future of the Columbia business picture.

FOGGY BOTTOM FARMER

WAX SCALE

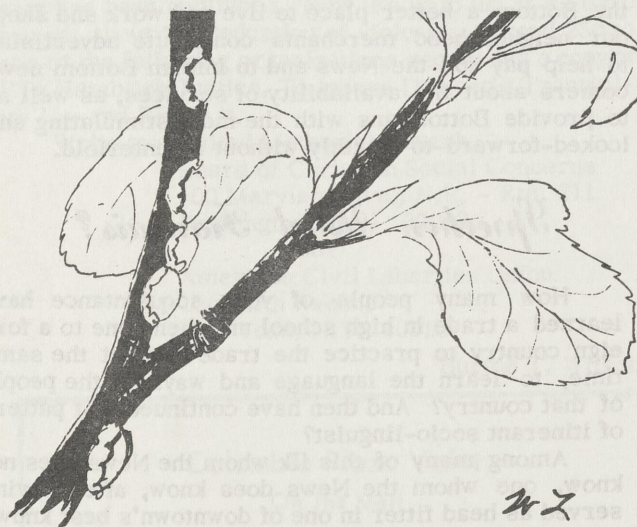

The addresses of "Bottom" residents with Wax Scale on their trees and shrubs was published last year. It didn't seem to help. Many of the same plants appear to have more Scale than last year. It can be devastating.

If you see Scale on your neighbor's plants (drawing below) ask him if he knows how to destroy them. The first step in a three-step campaign can begin now by rubbing off and collecting the chalk-like bits of scale that enclose the eggs of the destructive insects when only a few are visible.

The second step is that of removing the most infested branches and thinning out the heavily branched shrubs to allow the penetration of the spray which, to be effective, must completely cover the trunk, branches and twigs.

Spraying with an insecticide, the most important step in the campaign, begins when the insects emerge from the Scale in the latter part of June. Invisible then, but soon enlarging to be visible, three successive sprayings can destroy them. Malathion or Diazinon (Spectracide) at two teaspoons per gallon of water completely covering the bark, branches and twigs will do it. More next month when there will be a drawing of the insect as it becomes visible and most vulnerable to spray.

MEDIA

A new rule adopted by the Federal Communications Commission prevents owners of full-time AM, FM, or TV from purchasing additional licenses within a market. The Commission also proposed a rule that would require media owners to reduce their holdings to no more than one license - either an AM-FM combination, a TV station, or a newspaper in one market. The adopted rule was "designed to prevent undue influence on local public opinion by relatively few persons or groups." One does not have to be an admirer of Spiro Agnew to recognize that he was right in denouncing the dangerous concentration of power in the hands of the Washington Post which owns AM, FM, and TV outlets in D.C. He might have mentioned the Star which has a similar arrangement. The point is that media competition is important not just because in a free enterprise system it sometimes leads to a better product. News media serve the indispensable purpose in a free society of informing the people of all sides disputes. Diversity of opinion, sad to say, is lacking in the concentrated media of Washington.

A welcome recent addition to the newspaper scene is the semi-weekly D.C. Gazette, which does a good job of presenting citizens' views on local issues. A year's subscription may be had by sending five dollars to:

Feminist Driver?

Drivers' licenses are issued on the basis of ability to pass the drivers' examination; not on the basis of color, creed, nationality or sex.

In order to rent a car, a person must have a valid driver's license. Any male or female with a valid driver's license can rent a car.

But Rent-a-Truck is a horse of a different color. The only qualification you need to rent a truck (Moderately small sized ones) is a valid operator's license---and be a male.

Although Foggy Bottom News has not done exhaustive research into this apparent sexual discrimination, the situation arose not long ago in which a capable young wife was unequivocally denied the privilege of renting a small panel truck at one Discount Truck Rental of 9xx 12th Street, N.W. solely on the basis of her sex.

However, she had the faith to go across the street to their competitors and was happily rented a truck at Budget Rentatruck, 1200 K Street, NW, and returned it with a smile and without a scratch.

If you are a woman and want to rent a small truck, do go to Budget at 12th and K. They deserve a little recognition.

❀ MAY FIESTA ❀

The month of May is just around the corner. Last year the Foggy Bottom Association threw a Caribbean Fiesta on the parking lot of Saint Paul's Church on the 24th of May. There was Calypso music and dancing and drinks and eats and what usually goes with parties.

It was suggested that this year in the spring the Association ought to sponsor a flower bulb exchange in Hughes Mews, or perhaps a rose exchange, or both.

The Association exists for the well-being of the people of the area. Bring your ideas and suggestions to the meeting or talk to one of the officers. They cannot know what you like unless you tell them.

Residents of the Watergate can perform a special mission. You can inform your neighbor, John A. Volpe, Secretary of Transportation, that you don't want up to 120,000 cars and TRUCKS per day using the West Leg "Raceway", filling the air with pollution and noise. You can further object to having a gigantic interchange (and traffic jam) just outside your windows (at 26th and "K" Streets). This means ultimately that you would oppose the Three Sisters Bridge - the grand feeder of the octopus. Mr. Volpe is under tremendous pressure to push for these projects and you can, with enlightened self-interest, help defend him from this pressure.

HOST A STUDENT

For several years now, Fr. Martin at St. Paul's has been coordinating hospitality for foreign students coming to Washington under the auspices of the Episcopal Council for Foreign Students. Students from Finland, Austria, Greece, and West Germany come to the United States for nine weeks of employment varying from industry and banking to camps and office work. Either before or after their work they have a chance to visit as much of the country as time and money will allow. Most of them include in their itinerary the Federal City and are here from two to four days. Not only are these young people (usually in their early twenties) anxious to see points of interest, but to meet people from all walks of life.

We can expect nearly two hundred to visit Washington this year, the first group of Finnish Students due to arrive June 4th. Other groups will come in July, the latter part of August, and in September. Are there persons in Foggy Bottom who would be interested in providing hospitality? They need not be put up in fancy quarters. In fact, students have expressed great delight in being able to stay in apartments with people their own age. If a number of Bottomians are interested in this, a few joint programs could be planned for those here.

For further information, please call Fr. Martin (337-2020).

Time on Their Hands

On blueprint for a couple of years but only recently finally brought to realization is the St. Stephen's Adult Club, formed to bring together people with time on their hands during the day.

The club members get together at 1:00 p.m. on Mondays at the St. Stephen's Parish Hall for around three hours of games, movies, an occasional speaker, or a trip to some fun place (they have been to a television studio). As this item goes to press, the members are also involved in a work of charity (packing kits to give to patients entering Columbia Hospital for Women).

Club membership is open to all men and women who like being with people and who have time to kill. "The more, the merrier," they say. No formalities are required - just come around.
